FUTURES OF WORK IN SOUTH AFRICA RESEARCH REPORT

The National Economic Development and Labour Council (NEDLAC) is pleased to present the 'Futures of work in South Africa' research report. The research was commissioned through the council's Development Chamber.

The research was aimed at describing the futures of work in South Africa towards 2030, gaining insights by focusing on a sectoral analysis, the potential impact of skills development and emerging trends.

The final report was presented in March 2019. The executive summary and full report can all be accessed on www.nedlac.org.za

Social partners in government, organised business, organised community formations and organised labour are urged to read the complete report to ensure that they experience and benefit from the richness of the information gathered.
