CERTIFICATE OF INDEPENDENT BID DETERMINATION

- 1 This Standard Bidding Document (SBD) must form part of all bids¹ invited.

- 2 Section 4 (1) (b) (iii) of the Competition Act No. 89 of 1998, as amended, prohibits an agreement between, or concerted practice by, firms, or a decision by an association of firms, if it is between parties in a horizontal relationship and if it involves collusive bidding (or bid rigging).² Collusive bidding is a pe se prohibition meaning that it cannot be justified under any grounds.

- 3 Treasury Regulation 16A9 prescribes that accounting officers and accounting authorities must take all reasonable steps to prevent abuse of the supply chain management system and authorizes accounting officers and accounting authorities to:

- a. disregard the bid of any bidder if that bidder, or any of its directors have abused the institution's supply chain management system and or committed fraud or any other improper conduct in relation to such system.
 - b. cancel a contract awarded to a supplier of goods and services if the supplier committed any corrupt or fraudulent act during the bidding process or the execution of that contract.
- 4 This SBD serves as a certificate of declaration that would be used by institutions to ensure that, when bids are considered, reasonable steps are taken to prevent any form of bid-rigging.
- 5 In order to give effect to the above, the attached Certificate of Bid Determination (SBD 9) must be completed and submitted with the bid:

² Bid rigging (or collusive bidding) occurs when businesses, that would otherwise be expected to compete, secretly conspire to raise prices or lower the quality of goods and / or services for purchasers who wish to acquire goods and / or services through a bidding process. Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.

REQUESTS FOR QUOTATIONS

APPOINTMENT OF A SUITABLY QUALIFIED, EXPERIENCED SERVICE PROVIDER TO UNDERTAKE INITIAL SCOPING AND CONSULTATION ON SOCIAL OWNERSHIP MODELS IN THE ENERGY TRANSITION

1. INTRODUCTION

The Presidential Climate Commission (PCC) is a multi-stakeholder body established in 2020 by the President of South Africa to advise on the country’s climate change response and support a just transition to a low-carbon climate-resilient economy and society. The commission comprises of government ministers and 22 commissioners that represent diverse perspectives of social partners, including academia, business, civil society, labour and youth. The Commission emanates from the Presidential Summit held in October 2018, when social partners agreed that a statutory entity should be formed to coordinate and oversee the just transition towards a low-carbon, inclusive, climate-resilient economy, and society.

The PCC is currently hosted at the National Economic Development and Labour Council (NEDLAC), owing to its legal establishment processes currently underway.

One of the first tasks of the Presidential Climate Commission has been to develop a Just Transition Framework, setting out a shared vision for the just transition in South Africa, the principles to guide the transition, and the policies and governance arrangements to give effect to the transition. Amongst others, the Just Transition Framework argues for major industrial development to take place around new green economy and local carbon sectors, and argues for a diversity of ownership models that should be developed in the energy transition,

1. BACKGROUND

The PCC, through a multi-stakeholder process successfully delivered the first Just Transition Framework for South Africa, adopted by the Commission in May 2022 and recently approved by Cabinet in July 2022. South Africa's economy is characterised by concentration of wealth and income and high levels of energy and overall poverty. A core element of just transition in the post-apartheid context aims to address this concentration and ensure restorative and distributive justice. As one way of progressing this ambition, the national Just Transition Framework thus calls for a "diversely owned renewable system" and for a broadening of ownership of productive assets in support of a just transition. This follows calls over many years from social partners for including social ownership. Social ownership can refer to a wide diversity of ownership models, including state ownership at different levels (for example, municipalities), employee ownership, co-operative ownership, citizen ownership of equity in private companies or vehicles, individual ownership, and collective ownership (and management). Social ownership therefore includes multiple options, including enhanced participation in private utility scale renewable energy, household use with or without grid feed in, community-owned use and feed-in, or worker and community ownership shares (amongst others, and in sectors other than electricity). The model that should be chosen will depend on community identified problems and associated needs, be it local investment and jobs, income-generation, poverty alleviation, energy security, and participation in and management of assets.

2. PURPOSE

The purpose of the project is to undertake an initial literature review and consultation regarding social ownership models for the energy transition, leading to the development of a work programme to develop viable models for diverse ownership of new electricity generation assets, and increased community ownership in renewable energy.

3. SCOPE OF WORK

The work to be undertaken consists of the following:

4. Inception Phase

Inception Meeting

The appointed service provider will engage in a PCC organised inception meeting, with a view to agree on the overall implementation methodology and timelines. The meeting will also discuss a pre-liminary plan on Stakeholder engagement and management. Further establish the project steering committee (PSC) to guide this work.

Inception report

Following the engagement with the PCC, the appointed service provider will be required to deliver an inception report capturing the discussions, the stakeholder engagement and management plan, as well as other decisions as formulated during the inception meeting.

5. Literature review

The literature review should document the experience of social ownership models globally and domestically in order to understand the extent to which distributed, socially owned renewables can offer low-income households both access and revenue generating opportunities, if financial (e.g., affordability and access) and other barriers (including regulatory) can be addressed. Within South Africa the literature review should examine the experience of local community and workers ownership models and the extent to which these have constituted viable projects for further rollout. In addition, community ownership as part of the REIPPP since 2011 should be critically analysed, including the extent to which projects have delivered benefits through allocating shareholding to entities representing communities.

6. Stakeholder Consultation

The just transition is based on the principle of procedural justice, which means that the views of those most affected by the transition need to be taken into account in planning processes. Accordingly, the work on social ownership needs to be developed in a consultative manner. A preliminary stakeholder analysis should identify the key sectors, social partners and support agencies that are interested in or will be integral to the success of socially owned renewable energy models, and the key constituencies and actors that need to be consulted in the process of formulating recommendations.

This should be followed by a series of one-on-one consultations with key players in order to solicit their views and inputs, followed by a half day workshop with the key players in order to assimilate the learnings from the literature review and stakeholder engagement, with the aim to formulate recommendations regarding a work programme. Upon completion of all engagements with Stakeholders, the appointed service provider will prepare and submit a detailed stakeholder engagement report, reflecting on key themes and recommendations from the stakeholders.

7. Work programme for social ownership models

The work programme should outline the measures required to develop alternate forms of ownership of energy generation assets with the potential to contribute to inclusive growth in new low-carbon sectors and bring benefits for vulnerable groups. The initiative should enable innovation and learning in the development of new ownership models with the purpose of advancing inclusivity and benefits to vulnerable groups. Amongst others, the report and suggested work programme should cover:

- The diversity of ownership models for further exploration, including options for community participation in utility-scale renewable energy projects; options for household/cooperative/community ownership; and related options for small-scale enterprises.

- Further research that may be required around models and financing modalities, institutional and other barriers, and the testing of scalability including the identification and evaluation of existing pilot projects in differing social and geographic circumstances.
- Work required to identify barriers and challenges and to match such solutions to community-identified problems.
- Work with municipalities around guidelines on their participation in new models of generation, institutional planning and grid strengthening to enable them to participate actively in public ownership.
- The possible identification and implementation of two or three projects, including support for participants to enhance their capacity; grants and concessional financing to invest in the pilot projects and monitor results.
- Requirements for capacity development support and further community engagement.
- The possible establishment of a community of practice in community/social ownership.
